A GREAT CARNIVAL.

The Shows at the Park Are Far More than Claimed.

Mammoth Crowds Will Be Present During the Remaining Days of Carnival Week.

Today is the fourth day of the Carnival and everything is in full swing at the grounds. The weather since Monday has been ideal—no dust or mud, and just cool enough to make people of all ages feel like getting about and seeing something. And the Carnival is the place to see it. Such an aggregation of devices to please the people cannot fail its purpose. "You may fool some people sometimes,"—but be sure your sin will find you and so will the people. The management of the Carnival Company is not here to deceive.

Now that the sessions of the Knights of Pythias have come to a close there is nothing in the way of anybody gratifying his desire to go out to the grounds, and overflowing crowds may be expected during the remainder of the week. The National Fraternal Union certainly did a wise thing when it made a contract with the Parker Carnival Company to bring its attractions here, and we have no doubt a plethora of pleasure will be the result.

It is simply wonderful to watch the systematic manner in which everything is conducted on the grounds and to note the entire absence of anything thus far approaching the his act is appreciated is evidenced by the throngs that nightly attend the Coliseum and the cheers that fairly rend the air as he mounts the lofty structure from which he makes the dip of death. A whirl of wheels as the rider and bicycle crash down the steep incline; a flash of spangles from the on-lookers; a splash and the water is churned into foam as the diver disappears and near-by spectators are drenched with the spray; then up boys Russell, fairly shot from the water by the force of the dive, and the crowd goes crazy as it gives vent to its pent-up emotions.

Russell's act is a show in itself, but the management has this feature backed up by a vaudeville stage performance that is a credit to any organization. Demons, the girl who loops the loop in a hollow ball on the big steel loop, comes next to Russell in sensationalism. Then there is the Valere Trio, acrobats direct from the Madison Square Gardens, New York City, a troop of tumblers which presents an unique turn with a dash and vim that is truly refreshing. The Whirling Wheelers, comic and trick cyclists, provoke a laugh at every turn. Mac Wheeler is about the smoothest lad on a wheel that vulgar. If you want to enjoy an afternoon or evening away from home the Carnival is the place for you.

We may have had carnivals where the shocable ones could but hold up their hands in holy horror. But not this one. Everything is what was claimed it would be, strictly high-class and moral, and the Parker Pike has proved to be a place where gentlemen and ladies and children can see things marvelous or enjoy lung-expanding, health-giving laughter to the fullest. The Great Parker Amusement Company is one of the very few amusement aggregations which lives up to its paper. What they advertise on the billboards may be counted on. In this instance they even surpass their promises, and that addition is none other than Reckless Russell, the sensation of sensationalism. His bicycle act is not duplicated nor even attempted by any dare-devil in the death-trap profession. He stands alone as the top liner among performers of hair-raising stunts. And the fact that he also stands on one leg makes his act the more hazardous and thrilling. There is but one reckless Russell, and that one the Parker Amusement Company presents for the first time in Hopkinsville. That ever came down the pike. He also has a face and figure that makes the girls look sideways. Funny old Bert Wheeler does some tumbling stunts that would break up anything but a rubber man. Alberto, the human snake, is a contortionist of more than ordinary ability. The Randall Brothers, sharpshooters recently with the Buffalo Bill Wild West Show, are head-liners in the program. Their shooting is such as to call forth storms of applause and closes with a tune played on chime bells with rifle shots. It never fails to bring down the house.

They are All Winners.

There is not a "punk" show on the Pike. It's hard to pick the best out of the bunch of smaller attractions. Beautiful Superba featuring Peggy from Paris, a burst of electrical splendor, the Electric Theatre, Tyrolean Alps, and the Plantation Show share honors for popularity. The Tyrolean Alps is an electric masterpiece, an exact counterpart of the popular attraction of the same name on the St. Louis Pike. It is a show which appeals to the cultured and its scenic grandeur bankrupts the English language. Peggy from Paris is already the talk

OFFICERS PROMOTED.

Election Yesterday And T. G. Stuart Is Now Grand Chancellor.

Orphans' Home Matter Absorbing Interest Pythians of Kentucky, In Session Here.

The Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias began its annual session Tuesday and was formally welcomed at an open session at the Tabernacle at 11 o'clock.

Mayor Jouett Henry on behalf of the city, and Chas. M. Meacham, on behalf of the local lodge, made brief addresses and in turn were responded to by the visiting lodge.

Yesterday's Session.

The officers were elected at the morning session. There were no contests except for Outer Guard, the ed to by J. G. Covington and Grand Chancellor W. F. Schurman, of Carrollton. A musical program interspersed the speeches. Mrs. Anna Raison, of Newport, also responded to the addresses of welcome, on behalf of the Rathbone Sisters.

A session of the Grand Lodge was held at two o'clock and the Past Chancellor's degree was conferred on more than 100 new members.

Grand Chancellor Schurman's annual report was submitted, dealing principally with statistical information.

John W. Carter, Grand Keeper of Records and Seal, made his report, showing a total membership of order of promotion being generally observed. The new officers are as follows:

Thos. G. Stuart, Winchester, Grand Chancellor.

M. H. McLean, Covington, Grand Vice Chancellor.

Geo. D. Young, Louisville, Grand Prelate.

John W. Carter, Owensboro, Grand Keeper Records and Seal.

Julie Plummer, Newport, Grand Master of Exchequer.

O. H. Pollard, Jackson, Grand Master at Arms.

C. F. Saunders, Franklin, Grand Inner Guard.

Judge W. H. Hissem, Covington, Grand Outer Guard.

Jouett Henry, Hopkinsville, and T. B. Matthews, Covington, Supreme Representatives.

The most important matter to come up will be the Orphans' Home matter. A strong effort is being made to refuse to ratify the purchase of the Home at Lexington and order the purchase of the Monarch property at Owensboro. Emmett Orr is leading the fight against the report and the committee, of which L. H. Davis, of this city, is a member, will strive to have their report adopted.

A night session was held last night and the sessions will be continued to-day. The Grand Lodge will conclude its work not later than tonight.

There were 25 delegates present to the Grand Temple, Rathbone Sisters. They adjourned yesterday. A majority of them are at Hotel Latham; the rest at various boarding houses.

Other reports were submitted showing the order to be in a most healthful condition.

No night session was held except a meeting at the Pythian Hall at which the Rathbone Sisters exemplified their work and explained their auxiliary connection with the order. They asked to be allowed to furnish two rooms in the proposed Orphans' Home. Their membership in the State is now about 500.

Wounds, Bruises and Burns.

By applying an antiseptic dressing to wounds, bruises, burns and skin injuries before inflammation sets in, they may be healed without maturation and in about one-third the time required by the old treatment. This is the greatest discovery and triumph of modern surgery. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering such injuries entail. For sale by L. L. An Awful Cough Cured.

"Two years ago our little girl had a touch of pneumonia, which left her with an awful cough. She had spells of coughing, just like one with the whooping cough and some thought she would not get well at all. We got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. She stopped coughing and got fat," writes Mrs. Ora Bussard, Brubaker, Ill. This remedy is for sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

During the last year 150,119 persons came to the United States from Italy.

Nothing to Fear.

The question of injurious substances in medicines which has been agitating minds of many people, does not concern those who use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mothers need have no hesitancy in continuing to give it to their little ones, as it contains absolutely nothing injurious. This remedy is not only perfectly safe to give small children, but is a medicine of great worth and merit. It has a world wide reputation for its cures of coughs, colds and croup and can always be relied upon. For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

Extensive petroleum deposits have been found in Mesopotamia, west of the Persian frontier.

Caution!

Persons when traveling should exercise care in the use of drinking water. As a safeguard it is urged that every traveler secure a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy before leaving home, to be carried in the hand luggage. This may prevent distressing sickness and annoying delay. For sale by L. L. Elgin and Anderson & Fowler, the up to date druggists at Hopkinsville.

Grandfather's Awakening

MRS. CYRUS WILLIAMS could not feel annoyed with her father-in-law that he persisted in hanging on to life upon which a man past 80 according to Scripture, must feel that he has no reasonable sort of claim.

Evil spirits no doubt Grandmother Williams, Mrs. Cyrus had been also ruler upon the immense farm, but the fact that the title deeds for all those rolling acres and well-stocked barns still stood in the name of the best old man was a rankling thorn in that lady's peace of mind.

Not that he interfered in the slightest with her arrangements or failed to sign papers when told when and where to sign, or asked embarrassing questions about household expenses which were stretched to cover son Edward's college bills, but it seemed such a tiresome thing his hanging on to the frail threads which connected him with earth and earth's affairs.

Ever since the death of Maggie, his wife, Grandfather Williams had seemed in something of a dream out of which his faded eyes had looked indifferently at the world in which he still played a shadowy part.

Toward Mrs. Cyrus his manner seemed to convey a perpetual apology which she considered nothing more than her rightful due, particularly since he had shown the questionable taste to recover from an attack of lung fever in his eighty-fourth year, despite the fact that, with the doctor's word as her authority, she had gone so far as to make all arrangements for an elaborate funeral.

It was the spring after this unpleasant occurrence that Jimmy came to be chore boy upon the farm.

Jimmy was without visible relations. He was a homely little fellow with an over-pressed unsmiling expression and a talent for doing all sorts of unpleasant tasks that other people didn't like to do about the house and barn.

At first he did not see much of Grandfather Williams, but gradually, he began to notice the old man, and tried to show in little ways the timid compassion he felt for one who, in his ignorance of worldly matters, he considered almost as unfortunate as himself.

It was he who discovered the mysterious hiding places of the steel-rimmed glasses, and it was he who often thrust into the kitchen stove an extra stick of wood when grandfather stood out from the frozen splendor of the family sitting-room in search of the heat needed by his feeble system.

Not that Jimmy deliberately planned being attentive to the silent old man. In what he did he was merely inspired by the same instinct which made him take time from his hurried journey about the poultry yards to set a drooping chicken where the bright sun could dry its down upon its bedraggled feathers or to throw a specially attractive bit of garbage in the way of a poor-spirited hen hanging upon the outskirts of a barnyard feast.

For a long time he never guessed that Grandfather Williams noticed his timid efforts to show a little more of comfort in his old-fashioned life and then came the great day when a secret comradeship sprang up between them.

First it was only a small bag of rath-ersome secret permit, drops laid during his absence upon the three-legged stool beside his narrow bed, but, in time, such treasures collected in the tiny attic bedroom, as to make Jimmy the richest boy in the country round.

An actual pocket-knife with only one blade, the same with which Grandfather Williams had once whittled a toy for him, sat sunning himself during the warm spring days, a tin box in which he had once kept the tobacco for which he no longer had the taste, a long stout string which Jimmy meant to use for a fishing line, and numberless other treasures besides an actual piece of money, a carefully polished and, what seemed to Jimmy, an especially large quarter of a dollar.

Oh, Jimmy need not own a penny now, besides, he and Grandfather Williams often talked together. Such nice, little talks as grandfather leaned against the pasture fence while Jimmy did the milking, which fell to his lot upon the great, busy farm. Jimmy would then tell how some day, he meant to be a hired man and get $15 a month and have a suit of Sunday clothes and a red tie like Henry Bates', and grandfather would tell Jimmy endless stories of how he and Maggie had come to the farm when they both were young and what a smart housekeeper Maggie was, and what a cute little chap "Cy" had been.

That Cy, who was now so wonderful a man that Jimmy would dare lift his eyes to his hard, set face.

and the old man, stopping for a moment to rest himself against a chair, saw the boy run the shiver of his faded shirt hard across his eyes.

Then he did his act, then grandfather realized that the boy was crying, just as he sometimes did since Maggie died, sitting and crying silently by himself, making no effort to others to share the sorrow which seemed all his own.

But what would make a boy cry? His wife had not died and left him all alone in a world which he no longer cared for.

Moby, now, he was hungry. Cy's wife was sometimes close with the boy in the matter of his victuals.

"Hello, Jimmy," the old man called, trying to throw a note of gaiety into his cracked voice just as he used to long ago when Maggie was tired or things had gone wrong about the house. Jimmy looked up and smiled, and then it was plain even without the aid from the glasses, which were hopelessly lost for the time upon the top of grandfather's head, that the boy had been crying, and crying hard.

With a groan for his rheumatic knees, grandfather settled himself upon the step beside the sorrowful little figure, while as he did so the touch of the warm, childish limbs stirred memories asleep for years and a sense, possibly crept into the dim mind accustomed so long to another's way.

"What's the matter with you, Jimmy?" he said, more firmly than the boy had ever before heard him speak, and a knotted tremulous hand dropped upon the straggling hair which fell across the tea-stained cheeks.

Jimmy gave a convulsive sniff.

There was that in the old man's voice which unlocked the flood gates of his grief, and a whole volume of childish

"YOU AN ME AIR GOIN' TO HAVE THE DARNDDEST LOT OF FUN TO-DAY AT THAT CIRCUS!"

Grandfather sat a moment silent. A circus? Why, he had almost forgotten that such things existed.

Had Jimmy been hungry he had made his plans.

He was going to get him something to eat—a piece of pie, maby—Cy was fond of pie when he was young like Jimmy—but a circus—

Here's what was that?

Had an actual sound come to him or was it but the touch of memory's wand upon the far-off maelstrom of youth?

Paint at first, then clearer came the thrilling sound. Ah, he had it now. There was the call of the hughes in it and the roll of wheels.

Heaven had been kind to him, and Maggie was once more at his side—her warm, girlish hand was clasped in his.

A young man's love was leaping, as his veins—the circus was marching by.

"Look, Maggie, look," he thought he cried, "don't there goes the band. Look, sweetheart, the elephant is coming and the lion's cage."

We must go and get our tickets, come, dear, let's hurry on."

Grandfather Williams half rose to his feet, his thin cheeks flushed a burning red, and then—the past faded and he was left alone once more with only Jimmy clinging to his hand and gazing with frightened eyes into the old man's dazed, excited face.

A gasp, a quivering sigh shook grandfather's bowed figure, and then he rose. Years seemed to have fallen from him. Once more he was a man.

The seeds of a little child had given new birth to the fatherhood so long smothered in his lonely heart.

"Jimmy," he said, firmly, "put up them guns and come along to town; you an' me air goin' to have the darndest lot of fun to-day at that circus that you ever heard of."

"But, but," gasped Jimmy, for whom the gates of paradise seemed yawning, "Mr. Williams will scold us."

Grandfather straightened his bent shoulders and looked at Jimmy in starm surprise.

"Sold us!" he cried. "What, Katie Louise would scold me? Why, Jimmy, you must be crazy, child."

Mrs. Cyrus Williams, nee Hattie Lumis, came into the very little of needling for herself the funeral services she planned so carefully for her father-in-law, when that gentleman walked away in upon her demanding child clothes for Jimmy and an early dinner and carriage for both himself and the panic-stricken child.

And when it was learned that the old gentleman, before returning home, visited a lawyer and made ample provision for the neglected boy, Mrs. Cyrus had occasion for private meditation of a somewhat disconcerting character.

"A little kindness to them both would have cost me so little," the clever old lady could not but admit. "My short-sighted neglect of them has been the most expensive luxury of my entire life."

The Weather.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—Fair tonight. Thursday slowly rising temperature.

The Polk Fletcher case at Russellville was expected to go to the jury yesterday and a death sentence is almost sure to be returned. The soldiers are still there.

The registration figures clearly indicate this is the year for Christian county Democrats to make a supreme effort.

Supreme Chancellor Chas. E. Shively, of Indiana, has rendered an opinion that Indiana is not eligible to membership in the Pythian Order.

A meeting of the Supreme Lodge officers of Knights of Pythias has been called for Oct. 30 to consider the advisability of changing the October 1906 meeting place from New Orleans.

Only 30 new cases of yellow fever were reported at New Orleans yesterday, with 2 deaths. Total cases 3,072, total deaths 893. The situation is steadily improving at all infected points and all quarantine restrictions are expected to be removed by November 2.

BAPTISTS CONVENE.

Little River Association Meets at Cerulean.

Little River Baptist Association met with the church at Cerulean Springs yesterday and will be in session three days. There are forty-two churches in the Association, with a membership of about 5,000, and nearly all of them are represented at the meeting. This is the ninety-second session of the association.

A large crowd attended the exercises yesterday, many from this city, going down on the early train.

Capt. W. J. Stone, of Kuttawa, has been moderator for several years and he will, in all probability, be re-elected.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

SHOT IN SIDE.

James Sowell Catches Bullet from Negro's Pistol.

Information concerning shooting affray near Weaver's Store, was received here yesterday. It seems that a negro named Matthews and another party had some trouble and the negro pulled his pistol and fired. The ball struck James Sowell, a bystander, near the heart, and passed out between the third and fourth ribs of the left side.

Mr. Sowell was taken to his home, where he is confined to his bed. The wound is not considered necessarily fatal, but blood poisoning is feared.

Mr. Sowell is of the opinion that the shot was really intended for him as he had some trouble with the negro about three weeks ago. Matthews was arrested and taken to the Stewart county jail.

Last Hope Vanished.

When leading physicians said that W. M. Smith, of Pekin, Ia., had incurable consumption, his last hope vanished; but Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds, kept him out of his grave. He says: "This great specific completely cured me, and saved my life. Since then, I have used it for over 10 years, and consider it a marvelous lung and lung cure." Strictly scientific cure for Coughs, Sore throats or Colds; sure preventive of Pneumonia. Guaranteed, 50c and $1.00 bottles at R. C. Hardwick's drug store. Trial bottle free.

CROWDS CONTINUE

To Come To The Big Sale At Church Hill.

The big sale of general merchandise by Mr. J. M. Adams at Church Hill still continues and nearly everybody in that section is taking advantage of it. The store is crowded each day and the salesmen are as "busy as bees" from early morn' till late at night. The sale was advertised for ten days and will not close for several days yet. Mr. Adams' stock will certainly need replenishing at the wind up, as its depletion has been phenomenal.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal." R. C. Hardwick druggist, guarantees them at 50c.

Beautiful Love Story.

The delightful comedy success "Wife in Name Only", by the well known author, Mr. Franklin L. Knight, is to appear at Holland's Opera House, Thursday night, Oct. 5. It is said by competent critics to be the most beautiful love story, as well as one of the most powerful of plays ever presented to an American audience. The company was especially engaged as to their fitness for their respective parts, and is headed by the natural young actor, Mr. Garland Gaden, the favorite artist and vocalist, Miss Laura Lorraine, and the phenomenal child actress, Master Charley Kose.

Circle No. 4.

On account of the very great uncertainty of securing speakers for the Circle meeting, which has been called to convene with Ebenezer Baptist church, Oct. 23-29, the program committee is not able to publish a program with any degree of satisfaction. And unless there are new developments, there will be no meeting.

Fred W. Wittenbraker, Chairman of Committee.

GLITTERING.

Ringling Brothers Present
 "The Field of the Cloth of Gold."

"The Field of the Cloth of Gold" is the subject of a magnificent spectacle produced by Ringling Brothers with their world-famous shows. This season. There are 1,200 people in the cast, a ballet of 300, and a singing chorus of 200. The music original and is rendered by a selected band of fifty soloists. The scenic embellishment is gorgeous in the extreme, painted by the greatest American artists, and the 2,500 costumes worn by the vast company are of Parisian make and design. The fabrics are of the costliest texture and richest coloring, and the fashions of exquisite picture effects, and classical. The days of chivalry, "when knight-hood was in flower," are reproduced with faithful portraiture of splendid men and women, and their elaborate pastimes and enjoyments. The great stage is larger than a hundred theater stages combined, and the massive settings and historical properties require a special train for transportation. Never in the history of the circus has a spectacle been produced of the magnitude and regal splendor of this Ringling Brothers performance. All the pastimes of the middle ages are exemplified in thrilling action by dueling experts of skill and strength. Jousting tilts, sword combats, spearing contests, acrobatic exploits, equestrian trials, riding accomplishments, and many other exciting sports of the chivalric age are illustrated in whirling tourneys.

The radiant costumes and blazing jewels of royalty, its courtly dignities and smiling favorites, the imperial purple and sparkling robes of ecclesiastical rank; the glitter clatter of armored soldiery; the charm of dancing girls with garlands, singing maidens and devout matrons; the shield and helmet emblazonry of mounted knights; the prismatic coloring of the swirling scenes, animated by ever going and differing throngs; the majestic music of fifty solo instruments; all these brilliant features, and many more of fascinating importance, enchain the senses of the spectator, and make this production the most magnificent and attractive ever offered the American public. The grand pageant, in "The Field of the Cloth of Gold," is a processional display in which are presented more interesting historical types, more beautiful costumes, more elaborate scenic decorations, more novel and enjoying features and more men, women and children, and horses, than at any other time in the history of the world.

For cost of production, originality, enormous number of people employed, and overwhelming success, this gorgeous spectacle rises superior to anything of similar effort ever spread before the human eye. Ringling Brothers will exhibit at Hopkinsville Wednesday Oct. 25th, giving two performances, at 2 o'clock and at 8 o'clock. The big street parade will leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock sharply. Tickets of admission and reserved numbered tickets can be bought at the downtown ticket office of Ringling Brothers show day for exactly the same prices charged at the ticket wagons on the circus grounds.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Young Lady Robbed of Her Purse on Main Street.

Miss Martha Ellis Soyars was robbed on the corner of Main and Thirteenth streets Tuesday evening about 7:30 o'clock, by a negro boy who tore her hand-bag from her hand, containing a $5 bill and other articles. Miss Soyars, her mother and two other ladies were coming down the street, Miss Soyars walking behind with one of the ladies. The negro came up behind them whistling and when in front of T. M. Jones' residence came close behind her and snatched the bag. She held on firmly, but he tore off the handle and ran down Thirteenth street. The police were notified and yesterday morning found the hand-bag, containing "the empty purse and a handkerchief, where it had been thrown over Mr. N. B. Edmonds' fence. The thief has not been captured. All of the ladies saw him. He was a boy apparently about 15 years old, slender and black, and ran in a shambling gait, so peculiar that it attracted the attention of the ladies. Miss Soyars was much excited over the robbery, which was the first case of highway robbery that has ever occurred in the city.

 PEOPLE IN HIS CITY.

Mr. C. D. Taylor has been Clerk of the City Board of Health, Jackson, Miss., for ten years, which position has afforded him ample opportunity for noting the best means of preventing and curing disease.

He expresses his approval of the use of Peruna as the most effective means of solving a problem of such vital interest to the community in the following letter—

"The health of the poor of a large city is always a question of vital interest, not only to the city officials but to every citizen. It has been a source of much satisfaction to me to find that so large a number of working people in moderate circumstances have accepted Peruna as their family medicine. It has cured a large number of cases especially of catarrh of the head, lungs and stomach and building up the general health it cannot fail but prove a help and blessing to any community where it is generally adopted and used. I have found it an honest, reliable remedy and am pleased to endorse it."

A GREAT CARNIVAL.

of the town. The gowned jewels worn by this Terpsichorean artist are dazzling in their magnificence. The statue turning to life is the big feature of Superba. In the electric Theatre the latest and best life motion pictures are shown, featuring the great California Train Robbery, the most sensational moving picture ever taken. The lovers of good music and side-splitting darky comedy will find all they are looking for in the Plantation Show.

The Parker $10,000 Carry-Us-All is one of the winners of the Pike, and is loaded to the guards every trip. The Ferris Wheel is another favorite at the Carnival. Dozens of youths and maidens have already tested the powers of Madame De Vere, the scientific palmist and clairvoyant, and are loud in praise of her marvelous ability in reading past and present and predicting the future. Madame De Vere is up to the Parker requirements. That is, she is no fake like the general run of those who pose as fortune tellers.

Another interesting show is the Living Doll. Here is exhibited Wu Chang Ma, the Chinese midget, the best living man.

The fun factories of the Pike are the Katzenjammer Kastle and How old is Ann. The Age of Ann has been keeping the visiting K. P.'s awake at night.

The Free Acts.

Every afternoon and evening at 5:30 and 8:30 sensational free acts are put on at the Carnival. These take place just before the opening of the Coliseum. They include Sensational Smithson in the Leap the Gap on a bicycle; Mac Wheeler in the unicycle ride down a 100-foot ladder; the Valere Trio of Acrobats on the Rube wagon and Alberto in the Spanish Rings.

The Wild Animals.

The trained wild animal arena is proving another magnet of the Pike. LaBelle Salina, the dancing girl in the Lions' den, is one of the star features. Mlle. Marie, with a mixed group of pumas, leopards, bears, tigers and wildcats, is another drawing card. Captain Cardona enters the cage of Spitfire, the untamable lioness, at every performance.

NO CORRUPT FUNDS

For the Northwestern Mutual Life for Campaign Purposes.

Editor Kentuckian:

In view of the fact that it is a common opinion among many people that all life insurance companies are guilty of gross misappropriation of trust funds, I wish to give publication to statements from the President and Vice-President of the Northwestern that should put an end to any such feeling so far as that company is concerned. It has been my good fortune to represent the Northwestern for about 23 years and in all that time I have never known it to be tainted with a single act that would reflect discredit for manager of its funds. Because of such careful and honest management the company has furnished the very best of insurance at the lowest cost of any company to the policy holders, and has never been disgraced with charges of corruption, mismanagement and all sorts of investigations. It may be noted that Vice-President Merrill's letter was written in September, 1906, while the statement of President Palmer comes under date of Sept. 25, 1905.

WALTER KELLY,

District Agent.

Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. Agent Department.

Milwaukee, Sept. 14, 1906.

Mr. J. C. Garland, Dubuque, Ia.

Dear Sir: In your letter of the 10th inst., you state that the Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee had interviewed you and requested that you solicit from the Northwestern a contribution of $100 toward the campaign fund to aid in carrying the election for sound money. This company has never made a contribution of that sort. We have felt that we had no right to make a contribution even in cases where a great disaster had overtaken a city or a section of the country. We are aware that some companies have made contributions in some of these cases, but under our charter, and as we understand our duty, we have felt compelled to decline when requests have been made. There are both Democrats and Republicans on the official staff of this company, but we are without exception this fall in favor of sound money and shall vote accordingly. We have no sympathy with the free coinage of silver, but we do not feel at liberty to take part as a company in any political campaign. Undoubtedly a large number of our policyholders believe in the free coinage of silver and they certainly would have a grievance if the officers of the company should contribute towards expenses in opposition to their views. Yours truly,

WILLARD MERRILL, Vice-President.

"Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 25th.

A statement has appeared in certain papers, by implication, that this Company, in connection with others, has been contributing from the funds of the Company to campaign purposes. I am authorized by President Palmer to state most emphatically that not one dollar of such contribution has ever been made by the officials of this Company. Of course this statement is not necessary so far as the agents of the Company are concerned, but I want you to feel authorized to make the statement from the President of the Company that any such statement or implication or innuendo as that conveyed in the newspaper articles referred to are absolutely and entirely without the slightest foundation in fact as applied to this Company. It is expected that before the Legislative inquiry in New York is completed, officers of this Company will be called upon to testify, and if so, the agents of this Company need have no apprehension as to the practices of this Company after such testimony is published.

H. F. NORRIS, Supt. of Agencies."

Styles for the Early Fall

JAUNTY STREET SUITS.

IN THE spring we just have to get clothes; in the fall we just love to.

Such beautiful rich stuffs as the autumn brings forth, such cool, pleasant days in which to loiter and study what is being worn, what is to be worn.

Well, we are going to have wonderful colors this season, never were they more attractive. They are not vivid, and they certainly are not colorless.

A faddy season it is to be, but the shades will not be so delicate as the pastel tones of recent fashion.

What are the new shades? There are dull, dark blues, dim plums and the raspberry tints. What are the materials? Velvets and broadcloths are to have great vogue, and our old friend hennette cloth. The dully fady tones are beautiful in this latter fabric, and it is sure to be in high favor. Clifton and mouseline de silk will be very popular for evening gowns. And there we are with this diversified fashion knowledge to go by—thick velvets and broadcloth and soft wool daytimes, this stuffs for evening.

The hennette may be made up in simple shirt-waist dresses, and equally well in more elaborate afternoon gowns. When chosen for the latter costume, it should be made with a full, all-round skirt, and a chemise and mitten cuffs of Irish crochet to give a dressy touch to the ensemble. By every woman one must, the chemise and underleaves accessory promises to remain in mode.

Popline and Panama cloth will have vogue, too, following the caustic fabrics which they imitate. It is thought trimmings will be on a monotone, rather than show contrast. Velvet trimmings are almost always becoming as well as rich in effect, and we are glad they are to be used again. Often a woman can wear a black velvet hat when black in any other material would be very trying, and the softness of velvet makes many colors possible that otherwise would have to be rejected.

Concerning wraps. There is a separate cloak offered that is very long and full, the fullness much greater in the skirt. Many cloaks are mounted on yokes; sleeves are very full at the shoulders, and, a departure, they are seldom cut low around the neck. That senseless and dangerous fashion of the collarless coat seems threatened, and every one should rejoice thereto. There was nothing more comfortable and healthful than the high, rolling collar, which could be raised or lowered at will. It was a great convenience, too, one did not have to be hampered with furs. Dr. for some reason or other—maybe the furriers did it—we were forced for several seasons to buy low-necked winter coats. You might hunt the city over and not find one coat or cloak with a collar, unless, indeed, it happened to be an expensive carriage wrap way above your purse and your needs.

Both fall and winter wraps are to have collars. There may be one of those high, turned-down collars that really are quite a protection, over a straight, high band.

The long separate coat is an economical investment, as it can be made to serve for both day and evening. Of fine broadcloth it is either dressy or plain enough, just as one wishes. These cloaks are made semi-fitting, but the new ones are very wrap-like. Empires are much worn across the water, both the long and the three-quarters. Probably the empire will find favor here only as a carriage wrap. It is not universally becoming and looks more appropriate for afternoon and evening dress.

Suits will continue to be worn, long-coat suits and short-jacket suits; although there will be more buying of separate skirts and wraps than there have been the last few years. With a short costume a fitted coat is liked.

New lingerie waists are being shown, and will be worn with the underling until very late, perhaps all winter. The new feature in these waists is for the long tight cut to reach above the elbow, the spring designs had the puff extend just below. Yokes are seen on most of the waists. The cold days are not to lessen the popularity of the elbow sleeve, the new fall models show the continuation of its vogue. To go from lingerie to fur, milk is to be worn—when the purse will allow of it. Muffs will be large and flat; neckpieces will be flat again, but the hand bag is being taken up over in Paris.

The Instep Skirt to Remain

THERE is almost always agitation abroad to do away with the skirt, that French dressmaker have put their ban on it. This fills the mind with an an with apprehension, the one that so much desires to wear the right thing, but has no confidence in her own judgment. Authorities declare that America should, in this matter, as well as in other requirements of dress, be something of a law unto themselves—conditions there being different from those obtaining in France. American women walk more than do the French, and need a suitable pedestrian skirt. There is good promise that the instep skirt, which we did try to do without for a few years, is back again as an established thing, not to be affected by French caprice.

Rich and poor, all count the walking skirt an institution, absolutely a necessity. The dealers have perfected it so it today is a very handsome piece of the costume, and comes in several cuts. Once it was strictly utilitarian, and had no style about it; but its deficiencies have been studied, and we find at last that desirable combination of utility and good appearance. It may be killed, it may be gored, and even some are made of the circular style.

One need no one nowadays holding up a long skirt. For the house the all-round length is favored, but eschewed for street wear. This winter we may have afternoon and evening gowns with longer, fuller skirts, but even this is more or less problematical. For wear with the short skirt, there is a strong prospect that the straight front fitted coat will be preferred. Vests may come to be a feature of wraps, but it is pretty early to prophesy concerning this. The jacket for the short skirt reaches below the waistline, a haphazard affair resembling the old-fashioned riding habit.

It looks as though the separate skirt were to be very pop up again, and that the pleated instep skirt were to keep up its wide popularity. While there is a tendency towards plain materials there are excellent ones on display in a sort of shadow check, indicating combinations of soft colors. Color is to be prominent the coming season, for a walking costume there are offered black cloths with a suggestion of white about them, the white sometimes a hair-line effect, again part of the ground. Then there is a very attractive material which presents two colors, but without any definite design, one mixture of blue-plum and red is very rich.

WORLD'S SUPPLY OF FURS.

Number of Animals Killed and Value of Their Pelts—Enormous Destruction of Life.

Very few people except those connected with the fur trade, or who have had their attention directed to it, have any notion of the enormous destruction of animal life which takes place each year among young fur-bearing animals, or of the very extraordinary way in which the supply of these animals appears to keep up, says Forest and Stream.

There are only a few species which seem to be verging toward extinction; such are the sea otter, the beaver over large tracts of country, certain sorts of fur seals and a West African monkey. Northern Asia and northern North America still produce vast quantities of fur, and will long continue to do so.

Perhaps the most valuable fur in the world is that of the sea otter, formerly abundant on the shores of the Pacific ocean in northern Asia and North America, but now in great danger of extinction, unless it shall soon be efficiently protected. Between 1772 and 1774 about 10,000 skins of the sea otter were taken in the Aleutian islands, and the fur was so eagerly sought after that at the end of the eighteenth century 120,000 skins were taken each year. The results of such destruction could not be doubtful. The number killed soon fell to 15,000 each year, and in 1867, when Alaska was sold to the United States, it was 700. In 1901 it was 406, while in 1903 Messrs. Lamson & Co., of London, sold 463 skins, but they had none in January, 1904, and none in October. It is not unusual for a sea otter skin to sell for $500, while remarkably good skins may bring two, three or five times that price.

The only skin which approaches the sea otter in value is that of the black or silver fox. It is said that good skins of the black fox have been sold in St. Petersburg at $1,500 to $4,000. A pair of silver skins in London sold for $2,400, while a single skin is said to have brought $1,000.

The arctic foxes, known as white fox and blue fox, are in great demand. In 1903 Lamson & Co. sold more than 20,000 white skins and nearly 3,700 blue ones. Both these skins seem to be increasing in value. It is not long ago since the price of white fox skins ranged from $1 to $4. They are now said to be worth from $16 to $25, while the price of blue fox skins runs from $50 to $75.

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump on my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief; two fifty-cent bottles cured me sound and well. It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity. Sold by Cook & Higgins."

Judge Evans denied the writ of habeas corpus asked by W. Garnett Munn, of the American Seeding Machine Company, on the ground of lack of jurisdiction.

The Best Doctor.

Rev. B. C. Horton, Sulphur Springs, Tex., writes, July 16th, 1902: "I have used in my family Ballard's Snow Liniment and Horsehead Syrup, and they have proved certainly satisfactory. The liniment is the best we have ever used for headache and pain. The cough syrup has been our doctor for the last eight years." Sold by Cook & Higgins.

Analyzing these figures by races and assigning the independent voters to the parties they usually affiliate with, the results are as follows:

	W. C. DEM.	REP.
No. 1.....	179	177
No. 2.....	74	303

By either exhibit the Democrats have a small but distinct lead. This is explained by a clear gain of 102 over the highest previous white registration and a falling off of 54 over the colored registration of last year. An unusual thing also is shown by the failure of 200 Republicans, at least half of them colored, to claim party affiliation. If these Independent Republicans vote with the Democrats and the Independent Democrats vote their own ticket, the Democratic majority may be increased to 300 or 400 in the city, which would almost insure Democratic success in the county.

The Republicans cannot conceal their disappointment at the "surprise" box they have opened.

County Towns.

County town books are not all in and the returns cannot be compiled for this issue.

LOCAL SQUIBS.

The visiting Knights of Pythias are a good-looking lot of men.

Work on the front walks of the Y. M. C. A. building has been resumed. Lebkuecher's band certainly makes fine music and has been highly complimented during the week.

Things look mighty like Sunday when the crowd leaves the street and goes over to the carnival.

About the busiest looking place during the stay of the Knights has been in and about Hotel Latham.

The new minister of the Methodist church, Rev. A. P. Lyon, is expected to preach next Sunday morning and night.

James Courtney's case will be taken up in circuit court Saturday, when an application for bail will be considered.

People are guessing as to what building on Main street will be used by the new bank and what rate of interest will be paid on deposits.

Work has been commenced on the Latham mausoleum, but it will take some time to complete the job.

Manager Ennis is making a good start towards supplying the public with amusements and his efforts are appreciated.

The rains of Sunday and Monday were just what the people in town had been wishing for, to settle the dust for carnival week.

"The County Chairman," which played at the opera house Monday night, is pronounced the best that has been here for several years.

BROKE INTO MOAYON'S.

The Third Time Within Eighteen Months or Less.

LOSS IS VERY LITTLE.

Burglary Sometime After
day.

Burglars again got in their work at Moayon's store Tuesday night. This is the third time within about eighteen months that this has been done, and each time one of the show windows was broken. The burglary Tuesday night was committed by the thief breaking an oblong hole through the glass about twelve inches long and 4 1/2 inches broad. Through this aperture the burglar succeeded in drawing through three coats, three hats, three pairs of pants, three boxes neck ties, three or four shirts, a lot of suspenders, handkerchiefs and several other articles that cannot be remembered.

Suspicion attaches to no one, but the police will have but little trouble in running down the one who committed the theft if they once find any of the stolen articles, as nearly everything had the name of the house. Mr. Elb says the thief probably was committed soon after midnight, and though it is impossible to say positively what his loss is, a reasonable estimate would be $65 or $75. Mr. Will L. Bamberger says that when the store was robbed the last time he offered and paid a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of them. The chief of police, he says, found some of the stolen goods in Evansville, which led to the arrest and conviction of the parties who stole his goods. He offers a reward of $25 for the apprehension and conviction of the ones who robbed the store Tuesday night. The Moayon store seems to be a shining mark for burglars. Mr. Bamberger says that the store has been robbed six or eight times, all since they moved to Main street for business.

HAVE YOU A CHANCE ON THE Charter Oak Range?

We are Going to Give it away

Next Saturday, October 7th,
In Front Of Our Store.

This is the plan. You have all to gain and nothing to lose, as you are not required to trade a penny's worth. Only call and give us your name and address.

In giving this fine Charter Oak away, we have decided on a plan by which we will have nothing to say as to what person shall have it. The plan is this:

We propose to number 3,000 cards from 1 to 3,000 consecutively and give one of these tickets to every grown up person who calls for one, free of charge until they are all gone. We have written to the Charter Oak and Range Co., of St. Louis, to put a number between 1 and 3,000 on a card, seal it up and send it to the bank here addressed to Mr. H. C. Gant, and at 2:30 p. m. Oct. 7, Mr. Gant will open that package in front of our store, and the one holding the number that we have given away to correspond with the number in Mr. Gant's hand will get the stove, if presented within 30 minutes after the number is announced, by the person who received the number from us.
